Implementing Circular on the Collection of Annuities and the Examination System

1. The Patents Bill 2018 (hereinafter “The Patent Act”) was enacted on November 8th 2018, which comes into force on November 22, 2018. These require certain changes to our regulations related to examination, publication of patent applications, examination patent applications and the collection of annuities.
2. According to the Patent Act, patent applications in Antigua and Barbuda shall follow the following procedure, as illustrated below:

Publication, Examination and Grant

3. Prior to the Patent Act, the Registrar did not conduct substantive examination.
4. Under Section 24 (2) examination must be requested 6 months after the publication date of the application. Under Section 24(3) of the Patent Act, applications who fail to request examination prior to the deadline shall be deemed abandoned.
5. For patent applications filed 15 years before February 4th, 2019 or less, substantive examination will not be conducted and they will automatically be granted. The Registrar shall send notice of the grant, requesting the applicant to pay the grant fee¹ and publication of the grant fee² except where provisional refusals have been sent by the Registry. Note that PCT applications designating Antigua and Barbuda but filed after the 30-month deadline will not be granted³.
6. For patent applications filed in Antigua and Barbuda⁴ between February 4th, 2004 and November 22, 2017, a request of substantive examination will be now required. For that purpose, a 6 months transition period counted from the date of this Circular (February 4th, 2019), will be provided to patent applicants to request examination and payment of the prescribed fee⁵. Simultaneously applicants will be required to pay the publication fee⁶.
7. For patent applications filed in Antigua and Barbuda⁷ after November 22, 2017, the Registrar shall send the applicant a Notice of Publication requesting the publication fee. Upon publication, applicants shall request examination within 6 months from the publication date.

Under Section 26(5), failure to pay the annual fee will result in the lapse of the patent or patent application, subject to a grace period.
10. To allow time for patent owners and patent applicants to prepare for this change, a 6 months transition period, counted from the date of this Circular (February 4th, 2019), will be provided. By the end of the transition period, the current year's annuity must be paid. No further grace period shall apply to this initial payment. The next annuity must also be paid, if due, by the end of the transition period.
11. The prescribed fees are described in Regulation 3, Schedule 1. In cases where the current year's annuity has less than 6 months remaining from when the Patent Act went into force, applicants shall pay only half of the prescribed fee due.
